THE ROMAN QUESTION. Carlbuldi Defeated. Panis, Nov. 4.

The following melligence has just been receiv ed here from Rome. At six this morning the Papal troops, supported by the French forces at incked Garibaldi at Monte Rotonda and defeated Some say he is a prisoner and some say he was killed. Half an hour after the attack commenced Garibaldi, finding that his retreat was cut off, fought his way to the town of Monte Rotonda, where he was reinforced by some Ralian troops but the French coming to the assistance of the Pontinelal soldiers, he was beaten.

Another Account. The following account comes from another source: Garibaldi was attacked and defeated on Sunday. He retreated and surrendered to the Oil THANSPORTATION -For somemonths past he means of transporting oil from the oil reglo to the markets of New York and Philadelphia have been found inadequate, and the demand has stendily incrensed. With the exception of one or two broad grave tank lines which have been lying idle for the greater part of the time sin the last advance in oil freights, the tank and bar rel cars on all the railroads engaged in oil carry ing have been worked to their utmost capacity, but still there is a large amount of oil awaiting

This increased demand for railroad transnorts tion has been almost wholly caused by the Alle gheny River having remained too low for navigation much later than usual. To meet this in crease in the demand, several hundred tank an barrel cars have been added to the New York Central and other lines, and within a few days: further addition of two hundred barrel or rack ears have been made to the Empire Line Company's facilities

It is thought that with the additions which are now being made by the different companies the supply of tank and barrel cars will soon be sufficient to transport the oil as fast as desired.

During the month of December no particular secount was kept of the quantity of coal that was econsumed to heat this space; but early in Janua-ry my attention was called to the very small amount that had been used and feeling deeply interested in all new inventious and improvements, I determined to keep an accurate recor of the daily consumption, logether with the range of the thermometer in the external atmospher from January 6 to February 28, 1867, a period of fifty-three days. The coal was weighed daily, to a quarter of a pound; the quantity consumed was 1,525% pounds, or an average of 28 78-100 pounds per day of twenty-four hours, as the fire was not out during the time,

The average range of the thermometer, as ken norning and evening by that accurate statistician (on all subjects connected with the weather) Mr. Joel Andrews, was 23 32-100 degrees

It will be seen that the quantity of coal ranged from 13% to 47% pounds per day, and the exter-ual temperature from 5 degrees below zero to 45 above, and that the rate of the former is peneral latter. In the cases where there is any consider able variation it is mainly due to the increased draft in the Farnace, caused by high winds which prevailed on those days, and our own neglect in not setting the Regulator in correspondence with the same, for this Regulator has the consumption of the coal under as complete control as the Governor of an Englie has of its speed. If more care had been used during the mild days to see the Regulator in accordance with the tempe ture of the weather, a material reduction could bave been made even upon the low average be fore stated.

The Six different rooms and halls, as describe were warmed to my perfect sallsfaction, during the coldest of the weather, and in the cellar, at the end of the basement hall, nothing was frozen during the winter. I was never noneyed or pul oned by the escape of Coal Gas; the fire did not go out" during the time.
